The Healthcare and Assistive Technology Society is the professional body for individual practitioners in assistive technology.

Many people working in assistive technology haven’t had the backing of a professional body that can help support them in developing their knowledge and skills, provide tangible membership benefits, and offer a sense of identity.

The Society has been set up to support practitioners in the industry, also providing customers with additional confidence that the person they’re dealing with is a registered professional, committed to a Code of Conduct and to keeping their knowledge and skills up to date. It will also enable them to check the credentials of people coming to their door with a central database.

“After hearing about the Healthcare & Assistive Technology Society at Trade Days, it was a no brainer... I wanted to sign Medserve up straight away!”

Natasha Fielding
Operations Manager
Medserve Limited

“The Healthcare and Assistive Technology Society is good for me because it gives the company even more credibility with customers.”
